This is regular summer resort weather without the heat.

Globe doesn't claim to be the largest city in Arizona, but we'll get there just the same.

Mayor Taylor of San Francisco has been accused of being a poet, but no one can charge him with being a mollycoddle.

Tucson is getting to be quite a strike center. First it was the telegraphers, then the hello girls and now it's the switchmen.

It would be pretty tough on some of the Arizona Republicans if Governor Kibbey wanted to resign now and couldn't get a wire to Oyster Bay.

The chamber of commerce has begun a campaign for members and funds. A bigger, better and busier Globe will result from the work of this progressive institution. See that your name is placed on the membership roll of the chamber.

The action of the editor of the Prescott Journal-Miner in trying to force the Western Union to serve that paper with press reports by threats of having the telegraph office demolished by strike sympathizers was, if correctly reported, decidedly asinine. Of course, the people want to read the news from the outside world, but we fail to see the consistency of sympathizers with the striking operators expressing a desire to obtain the advantage of a service furnished by strikebreakers, when they would destroy the telegraph office before allowing their neighbor to receive a message which would probably mean a matter of life or death.

THE OPERATORS' STRIKE

The settlement of the great telegraphers' strike seems to be as far away as it was when the strike was called two weeks ago, and despite the claims of the heads of the two great companies that conditions are again normal, there is absolutely nothing to bear out the contention. In fact, only yesterday the local manager of the Western Union received instructions from his division superintendent to accept no business except "subject to indefinite delay."

There is little doubt that the responsibility of the settlement of the strike rests upon President Clowry of the Western Union, he who declares that there is nothing to arbitrate. Telegraphers are by far the poorest paid class of skilled labor in the country and at the same time more is demanded of the telegrapher than of almost any wage worker. In addition to the skill, intelligence and accuracy that is required of him, the operator who works for the Western Union must furnish his own typewriter, which as a rule costs him an amount equivalent to about a month and a half's salary. If that in itself is not a just grievance, there never was one. And they have others which would not perhaps be so well understood by the public at large.

Both of the large companies have recently raised their tolls, but the 10 per cent raise in wages was provided for without the additional cost of messages by a careful weeding out of high-priced operators, for whom were substituted lower salaried men. It was a raw deal all around, both for the public and the operators.

If the Western Union does not take the initiative and if the federal government does not intervene, it is up to the strong Order of Railroad Telegraphers to come to the assistance of their brothers and tie the country up so tight that the government will be compelled to bring the big companies to time.

ELECTIONS OF 1907

Many persons suppose that the only politics that is in the years immediately preceding the big quadriennial campaigns is the maneuvering of the various presidential aspirants for position in the approaching convention, says Leslie's Weekly. This is a mistake, however. Several states always hold elections in those "off" years, and a few of them are important enough to attract a good deal of attention.

Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Maryland, Mississippi and Kentucky elect governors in November, 1907, and most of these states, as well as a few others, will choose one or both branches of their legislatures. The contests in Rhode Island, New Jersey and Maryland will be of especial interest to the country. Rhode Island, which gave a plurality of nearly 17,000 for President Roosevelt in 1904, has elected a Democrat to the governorship several times recently, and has a Democratic governor now. New Jersey, which was once called the northern projection of the solid south, and which until 1896 was about as reliably Democratic as South Carolina, is being "claimed" by the Democrats this year. Maryland has been a doubtful state for the past dozen years, swinging from one party to the other. McKinley carried it in 1896 and 1900, and in 1904 the division was so close that nobody knew who had the state until the official count was made.

Then it was found that out of a total of 224,000, Parker beat Roosevelt by only fifty-one votes.

These states, holding their elections so close to the big national canvass, will show the direction and the force of the partisan currents. When the Republicans carried Maryland and Kentucky for governor in 1895 the country saw that the drift was decidedly in favor of the Republicans for the big canvass twelve months later. When Roswell P. Flower carried New York for governor in 1891 by a 48,000 margin, and Horace Boise carried Iowa, these were among the portents of the Democratic landslide in 1892, which placed Cleveland in the presidency.

Foraker's defeat at the polls for governor of Ohio in 1883 by George Hoadley was one of the indications of that swing of the country away from the Republicans which was to defeat Blaine in 1884 and send Cleveland to the White House for his first term. Some of those state elections of 1907 may be important as "pointers" of the direction in which the political wind will blow in 1908.

GERONIMO GETS LITTLE SYMPATHY

But in the East They Think the Old Murderer of Women and Children Should Be Allowed to Return to the Scenes of His Former Bloody Crimes.

Recently New England papers have been showing signs of hysterics over the "sad fate of Old Geronimo." The Connecticut Times compares him to a bird "who has spent his life in the wild and who now foolishly beats his wings against the bars of a prison cell."

What rot!
If Geronimo ever showed one redeeming trait it has not been recorded, and yet in his old age the "Great White Father" has dealt him tolerant forgiveness and charity. Last winter, during the inaugural ceremonies at Washington, Geronimo was one of the big chiefs sent east to give color to a parade in Washington. Some persons made vigorous objection to permitting this old outthroat to march with his fellow warriors, but the commissioner of Indian affairs, Mr. Leupp, pooh-poohed these critics, saying that Geronimo had lived down his crimes during some twenty years of imprisonment and deserved a place as a harmless and striking feature of the national train.

There are many men in the west who would dearly love to have a pot shot at Geronimo, men whose kinfolk died in torture in the light of their blazing homes some thirty years ago. And it was impossible for the thousands who have seen him in recent years at St.
Louis or Buffalo or with a "wild west show" to realize these facts as collected by the Society of Pioneers of Arizona and printed in the Tucson Citizen.

Seventy-six white men, women and children were killed by Geronimo in his last raid. It is said that in the years 1869 and 1870, 176 persons were murdered by his band of Apaches, and according to a record kept by Herman Ehrenberger, a civil and mining engineer, 425 persons, at that time one-half the American population of Arizona, fell victims to the scalping knives of Geronimo's braves between 1856 and 1862.—Prospector.

PLAYED CIRCLES AROUND TUCSON

How They Took the Defeat of the Armstrongs in the Ancient Village—Had It Figured Out that Globe Would Be Easy for the Tucson Players.

According to the Tucson papers, the fans of that city had it doped out that the Globe team would be easy money for the champions of the City League, who played here Sunday. Monday's Citizen says:

A private wire received in this city last night stated that the Armstrongs had yesterday afternoon gone down to defeat at the hands of the husky Globe miners, by a score of 11 to 2.

Globe, it is said, played circles around the Tucson boys and had them up in the air during almost the entire game.
Collins was on the hill for the Armstrongs, but the miners jumped at his offerings and batted him heavily.

Numerous errors were made by the boys from this city, which helped considerably to lose the game. They were light with the stick, and the pitcher for the Globe team, whose name is also Collins, seemed to have the local players at his mercy. The heaviest hitters on the team were unable to find him, and it was all off with Tucson.

The Armstrongs left this city confident of victory, as they had a very strong lineup, with the exception of the catcher's position. Carson, who fills that place on the team, was unable to go and it is reported that they left town with but eight men. Who caught the game and where they secured the man to do it is a mystery.

The local men figured that Globe had had a very hard time in defeating Phoenix in the series played last July and as Phoenix fell twice before the Armstrongs, they considered Globe as rather easy money.

and lands necessary to operate the same.

To develop, mine and work the same, and to ship therefrom all ores and metals extracted. To erect sampling, concentrating and reduction works and other works necessary to treat the ores.
To erect, construct and maintain suitable works for the treatment of barium, or baryta. To dispose of its property including all of its mineral land, works and other improvements in the manner provided in the By-laws of this corporation.

To acquire necessary roads, lines and machinery and other equipment generally used in the mining business, and in the treatment of barium or baryta.
To lease or mortgage all or any part of the lands and other property of this corporation it is now possessed of, be entitled to or may hereafter acquire, upon such terms and conditions as its Board of Directors may determine.

To acquire by purchase or otherwise, real and personal property, including bonds of other corporations, and to do and perform all kinds of business which may be transacted by a natural person.

III.
The capital stock of this corporation shall be Five Hundred Thousand Dollars, divided into Five Hundred Thousand shares of the par value of One Dollar each. Such stock to be paid for in cash, property or service, upon such terms and conditions as shall be provided for by resolution adopted by its Board of Directors.

IV.
The time of the commencement of this corporation shall be the day of filing the Articles of Incorporation with the County Recorder of Gila County, Arizona, and a certified copy with the Territorial Auditor, and the corporation shall endure for a term of twenty-five years from the date of filing aforesaid.

V.
The affairs of this corporation shall be conducted by a Board of Five Directors, who shall be shareholders after the first annual meeting of the stockholders. A majority of said Board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business and the first directors shall be the undersigned incorpor-
